CHATHAM BOROUGH FARMERS' MARKET

CHATHAM BOROUGH FARMERS MARKET (CBFM): 2015 Annual Report

Mission Statement:

The Committee is focused on providing wholesome, source verified, Jersey Fresh, local to table, food products to Chatham residents and surrounding community consumers. We are members of the New Jersey Council of Farmers and Communities, a not-for-profit state organization dedicated to preserving productive farmland in New Jersey.

The Chatham Borough Farmers' Market provides conventionally and organically grown Jersey Fresh fruits and vegetables to the local community and its neighbors.

The Chatham Borough Farmers' Market benefits the consumer by:

Offering locally harvested fresh fruits and vegetables that are naturally more flavorful and nutritious.

Bringing organic produce and prepared foods, providing greater choices for healthful living.

The Chatham Borough Farmers' Market benefits the community by:

Drawing residents and visitors to the downtown, boosting the local economy.

Providing a venue for local groups, businesses, and non-profit organizations to interact with citizenry, strengthening community spirit through the market place.

The Chatham Borough Farmers' Market benefits the environment by:

Reducing the food miles between field and table, lowering carbon emissions.

Featuring organic produce, reducing the amount of pesticides and fertilizers entering waterways, improving many fragile ecosystems.

Supporting New Jersey farmers, preserving open and productive farmland - keeping the garden in The Garden State.

Advisory Committee Members:

Each Saturday during the Farmers' Market season, from 7 AM – 2PM members of the Advisory Committee supported the production of the Chatham Borough Farmers' Market (CBFM). Community volunteers gave their time weekly for 23 weeks through rotating shifts/hours, for onsite market participation to assist farmers, vendors and consumers. Community/consumer interactive educational and nutritional events were run by volunteers in cooperation with local resources, professionals and private industry.

Advisory Committee members also function as the steering committee for the market's programming, advertising and vendor selection process. Committee members attended monthly Advisory Committee and sub-committee meetings. Monthly committee meetings were held the second Tuesday of each month, January through November, with no meeting in December.

The Chatham Borough Farmers' Market Volunteer Advisory Committee is made of professionals from all walks of life and talents. Their pro-bono efforts impact and benefit the market greatly such as: graphic design, web master, finance professionals, marketing & nutrition professionals, artists, publicists, former government officials, business development experts, event planners and more.

The Advisory Committee has cultivated a Youth Volunteer League for the past eight years and witnessed a nearly 20% increase in youth volunteerism for 2015. A total of 11 youth volunteers make up over one third of the CBFM volunteer force. Over 2,000 volunteer hours were recorded in 2015 by all members of the CBFM Committee.

John Ball is the first market volunteer to be on site at the market each Saturday to greet vendors who arrive as early as 5:30 AM. Joining John as Market staples are Mary Goodbread, and youth volunteers Sarah Lowe and Sean Conlan, who are also among the first to arrive and the last to leave the Market site each week. A number of other volunteers are on-site throughout the entire Market day.

*Capital Expenses in 2010 spent down the grants account

* Capital Expenses in 2014 Chapter 159 for $9,500

Realizing a positive balance of $3,185.17 in 2015 (see attached)

Accomplishments:

Even prior to commencing, the Chatham Borough Farmers' Market saw benefit from permanent seating improvements. Through a Chapter 159 resolution and with Historic Preservation Commission approval, CBFM purchased two Victor Stanley tables and three streetscape benches, the same style product used in the 2010 streetscape project. These capital improvements provided benefit to Market customers, as well as commuters, recreation program youth and parents, and for others who frequent the RR Plaza South parking lot area.

The Market Manager and CBFM Advisory Committee successfully executed the Chatham Borough Farmers' Market's ninth Season for 23 operational weeks. The Market ended the Saturday prior to Thanksgiving allowing for vendor relationships to continue through the holiday seasons.

The Constant Contact electronic newsletter was sent quarterly to vendors, houses of worship, school houses and an email data base list of Market supporters totaling 500 active and approved contacts. The updates included Market operational information for residents and consumers as well as upcoming Market-sponsored events, contests and entertainment announcements.

Customers and vendors were also kept informed through the Market's Facebook page. Multiple weekly updates, including new vendor announcements, vendor promotions and Market photographs were seen by over 400 Facebook "friends".

Community not for profit guests accounted for over two dozen scheduled appearances at the Market. Entertainment was provided for 17 weeks, including performances by The Chatham Brass Ensemble, WDHA Live Broadcast, Chatham Flutes, the Good to Go oldies band, Dance Innovations, District Youth Strings, Kathy Byers (Children's Singer/Songwriter), and local authors.

CBFM continued a relationship with the Mayors' Wellness Campaign of the Chathams. St. Barnabas Medical Center co-hosted the Mayors' Wellness Campaign with monthly health topics and health care professional appearances. Other health activities included Shop Rite Registered Dietitian, Monica Hansen's recipe samples and a food demonstration by St. Barnabas Medical Center Executive Chef Tim Compton held monthly.

In 2015 the CBFM and the Mayors Wellness Campaign teamed up with the Environmental Commission and Green Initiative subcommittee to host the first collaborative Sustainability Fair. This allowed the Green Initiative – Green Fair and the MWC Health Fair to gain synergy from the consumer crowd at the CBFM and was held on September 18th. It was a very successful venture.

The Chatham Borough Farmers' Market was included in the community's Fourth of July Parade for the ninth year. Representing the Market, Youth Advisory League and adult volunteers donned tomato, corn, carrot, pea, peach and blueberry costumes.

Committee members provided press releases and graphic designs utilized to alert local media readers, both newsprint and online versions, of the Chatham Courier, edible Jersey Magazine, Independent Press, NJ.com, The Alternative Press and Chatham Patch announcing activities for those visiting the Market each week. CBFM's innovative form of advertisement in 2015 was window painting and banner hanging in the empty storefronts in the Central Business District. The CBD historic light pole banners continue to fly throughout the length of the Market season in addition to other town advertising. The Committee develops themes for weekly Market operation and offer contests and other interactive events for consumer participation, such as: Tasting Heirloom Tomatoes, Kids Day, a Peach Party, and many others (please see attached).

For the ninth year, we participated in the New Jersey Council of Farmers and Communities Mini Grant Program for advertising farmers' markets. The grants written by the Market Manager, a Certified Grant Specialist, Janice R. Piccolo, are executed through NJCFC who receives funding from the US Department of Agriculture. The grant funds are used to make large capital infrastructure improvements, like the permanent on-site seating/dining areas and future plans for permanent signage. The Chatham Jaycees likewise have been annual charitable gift donors since the inception of the market.

CBFM sells sustainable market bags, insulated to keep perishables at proper temperature, for $5.00, and bottled water to parched shoppers; a fundraiser for market operational supplies.

As noted in previous years, CBFM is an ideal location for community and area not-for-profits to interact with and greet approximately 1500 consumers shopping on a Market Saturday. Providing information regarding their mission statement, fund raising for their cause, and becoming a part of the community while displaying at the Farmers' Market, heightens the community experience at the Market. The Market, due to its lengthy duration of 23 weeks, and extreme exposure to weather and temperature, is always seeking new Saturday volunteers. In 2015, through an arrangement with Chatham High School Key Club freshman advisor Alex Cotigno, young Key Club members became involved after a recruitment visit by the Market Manager to CHS Key Club meetings.

The Chatham High School Marching Band is holding their annual fruit sale, and will be taking "last chance" orders for Florida Indian River Groves citrus fruit at the market this Saturday. The fruit is delivered by truck, all the way from Florida for the freshest, juiciest, sweetest citrus you've ever tasted; great for holiday gifts! This is the Marching Band's only fundraiser.

Have you met our new vendor?

Let's welcome Anna from Furry Babies Gourmet! After witnessing recall after recall on commercially produced dog treats and dog food, Anna decided to take matters into her own hands and started making food and treats for her Furry Babies to enjoy. She uses only organic or all natural ingredients in her dog treats and they contain NO preservatives, additives, chemicals or dyes. She offers gluten free options as well as seasonal items such as pumpkin chips, gingerbread bones, and pumpkin pupcakes. Stop by, say hello and pick up some wholesome treats for your Furry Babies! Prices start at $2
